From St. Anthony's Schools there were graduated last Friday 29 pupils, seven from the girls schools and 22 from the boys. For the boys graduation the ceremonies were extremely simple owing to the fact that the school has no suitable place for holding such exercises but there was a large number of relatives and friends of the graduates in attendance. Father Justin distributed the diplomas. At the graduation of the girls there was a suitable program arranged by the sisters which was prettily carried out.

The graduates of the girls' school were, Elsie Tam, Mary Tam, Margaret Medeiros, Florence Koga, Anna Wong, Edith Wong, and Mary Leval.

Non-Enforcement Is Only Trouble Seen As To Prohibition

BOSTON, May 22—(Associated Press Mail)—"The only trouble with prohibition is its lack of enforcement," and the 18th amendment "has resulted in untold good among the thousands of families most likely to suffer severe because of intemperance," John F. Moore, of Boston, president of the Family Welfare Society, told the Unitarian Temperance Society today.

As one of the speakers on "Prohibition Results," Mr. Moore gave representatives of the Unitarian parishes of the United States and Canada a description of the findings of his staff of workers in this city. The Volstead act, he said, had decreased the number of new cases in the juvenile court of Boston, had enabled many families to accumulate savings which tided them over periods of unemployment, had decreased the number of applications for aid to the society and had its influence on the industrial situation in keeping irregular workers "who are most subject to the temptations of drinks" from spending their wages for intoxicants.

"Prohibition has favorably affected family life among those we visit," said Mr. Moore. "Today many families are better and happier for it. Figures in regard to arrests in Boston must not be misunderstood. To say arrests for drunkenness in 1921 increased almost 100 percent over those for the same period in 1920 is true, but it is equally true that arrests in 1921 were 100 percent less than in 1916, 1917 and 1918."

"Considering the effect upon the drinker of some of the liquor now being sold, and the attitude of the police, there is no doubt that a higher percent of drinkers are now arrested than formerly."

"There is evidence also that many of those arrested for drink are without family connections and are often persons who are unemployed and who have no residence in the community."

"Many men who formerly were constant drinkers now break over occasionally. This means less money wasted in drink and more money invested in the welfare of the family. It means a better home life and better opportunity for the children."

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Peggy Livingston celebrated her sixth birthday anniversary at the home of her mother, Mrs. H. B. Penhallow, with a party on Friday afternoon and the little folk had a most delightful time.

It was a lawn party and the weather man had seen to it that nothing should mar the good time, while dame nature furnished the most beautiful of decorations. All too fast the afternoon sped away in the playing of games and delicious refreshments of ice cream, cake and punch were served.

The guests were: Persis Paris, Barbara Engle, Alma Vincent, Eloise Campbell, Juliet Alice Hoogs, Elizabeth Murphy, Patricia Murphy, Jean Savage, Dorothy Weight, Jean Gibb, Caroline Gibb, Esther Louise Lindsay, Annie McNicoll, Edith Crabbe, Baby Forest, Walter Weight, Bruce Howell, Billy Howell, John Rowland Bohr, James Gibb, Noel Gibb, Ross Aiken, Chadsey Penhallow, and Charles Penhallow.

BALDWIN—HILL

At a pretty wedding ceremony a week ago Saturday evening Miss Jessie Baldwin, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erdmann Dwight Baldwin, became the bride of Lieut. William Hardy Hill, U. S. A., says the report in Honolulu Star-Bulletin society columns.

The marriage rites were solemnized in the presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Jessie Curtis, Turner of Punahou St., the Rev. A. W. Palmer of the Central Union church, officiating.

The ceremony was solemnized beneath a lattice-work trellis at the sides of which were tall baskets of vari-colored gladioli. The trellis itself was a bower of orchids and ferns.

Mrs. Taylor De Camp, accompanied by Miss Frances Farrington, played Lohengrin's Wedding March.

The bridal party was preceded by little Allen and James Hurd, who formed a ribbon aisle for the bride and her attendants.

Miss Carol Moore, who served as maid of honor, wore a blue taffeta frock and carried a bouquet of sweet peas and roses.

The bridesmaids, Miss India Wayson and Miss Elizabeth Wall, wore gowns of green and orchid taffeta respectively, and carried French bouquets.

The bride entered leaning on the arm of her father. She wore an attractive gown of white georgette embellished with pearl and crystal beads and carried a shower bouquet of white roses, orchids, zinnias and silver leaves. The bride veil was caught to her hair with orange blossoms.

The bridegroom was attended by Lieut. Arthur Shreve, U. S. A.

Miss Marian Paris, Miss Margaret Austin, Miss Constance Van Inwegen, Miss Caroline Balding and Miss Janet Kilbourne were the ushers.

BRIDES-TO-BE PICTURED

Four Maui girls, soon to be brides were pictured in the society pages of the Honolulu Star-Bulletin last Saturday. They were Miss Rita Rosecrans of Paia, Miss Winnifred Weddick, Miss Mary DeKay and Miss Lois Murdoch.

Miss DeKay will be married in Berkeley, California, but the other ceremonies are expected to be performed on Maui.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

From Honolulu comes the announcement of the engagement of Miss Dorothy Steltz of Honolulu and Mr. Hugh Harding Jones of Maui. The wedding is to take place in the early autumn, the date to be announced following the return of Miss Steltz from a visit to her mother in Washington.

D. C. The bride-to-be is daughter of Mrs. Rachael Steltz of Washington. Mr. Jones is the representative of the Standard Oil Company on Maui and a son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank V. Jones of Los Angeles.

FOR MRS. DeKAY

Mrs. George H. DeKay was guest of honor at two afternoons last week, one in Kahului and one in Wailuku.

On Friday afternoon Mrs. J. J. Walsh at her Kahului home held an informal tea for Mrs. DeKay, who will soon join her husband in Honolulu. About 15 attended.

On Saturday, in Wailuku, Mrs. E. E. Pleasant was hostess at an affair held on the lovely lawn of the William and Mary Alexander parsonage. Games were played, Miss Huntley of Munaolu Seminary charmed with recitals and delicious refreshments were served. About 25 attended.

"Since 1894," said Lord Northcliffe when making the announcement, "the pace in evening newspaper production has been intensified and is going to increase still further. Wireless telephony is beginning and is going to affect the publication of news."

The occasion was the retirement of W. H. Evans, the editor-in-chief of The Evening News who has been for 28 years on one or another of Lord Northcliffe's papers. Lord Northcliffe gave him a banquet, presented him with a cheque for £10,000 and awarded him a pension of £2,500 a year for the next 10 years and afterwards, for the remainder of his life, a pension of £1,000 a year.

According to the testimony of newspaper men who have worked on both New York and London afternoon news papers, the work on the latter is much the easier. The New York afternoon papers use on an average three as many news as do their London contemporaries and do much harder hustling to get it.

High School Players Please in "Stop Thief"

"Stop Thief," the annual High School play, rendered by the school's dramatic club at the Kahului Theater on Saturday night was such a fine success that it is proposed to have a production in Lahaina also, but definite announcement to that effect has not been made. There was a good house to welcome the young players and the audience was warm in the expression of its appreciation of the efforts of the performers.

As a vehicle for the display of the talents of the actors the play was a well chosen comedy and as such it pleased but it was for the cast to make or mar it and they made it. The many rehearsals, the careful attention to details and the study the students have put into it were reflected and the work of those who had assisted in their coaching and drilling was also apparent.

Especially credit for his acting goes to David Penhallow. He was "William Carr," had made his part his own and lived it during the evening. Almost as much praise has been bestowed upon Floyd Brown, Miss Bernice Correll and Richard Penhallow. They excelled the others of the cast but at that no discredit attaches to the others for there are always outstanding parts in every play. All did well, but the audience seemed to think that the four above named did best.
